Ir was generally supposed that when the Chinese Government took over the Amov-Foochow Telegraph line that the Great Northern Company would be permitted to erect it in peace. But this supposition has proved a mistaken one. Although the Great Northern Company are now engaged in constructing the line for the Chinese Government, the populace-seem as little inclined asbefore to allow them to carry out their undertaking. Two or three attacks have been made upon the Company's employés and a quantity of their material stolen. The latest outrage is the most serious. As stated in yesterday's issue, Mr. Holsz, a gentleman in the service of the Telegraph Company, was severely beaten by a mob of natives, and narrowly escaped with his life, while the Belgium, Denmark, and Japan. greater portion of the line been Huang Kow and Foochow was destroyed, and a larger for Manila in ballast towards the end of last quantity of the material carried off. The native soldiers, supposed to be guarding the work, fled like a flock of sheep on the approach of the marauders, and Mr. Holst was consequently abandoned to their mercy. The district magistrate has not, it is said attempted the arrest of any of the offenders. but sought to compound the affair by offering to restore about one half of the plunder and presenting the Telegraph Company's representatives with some sheep, pigs, poultry, &c. Up to the 7th instant about fifteen miles of line and posts had been stolen, and no effort had been made to bring the robbers to justice. Such are the particulars of the latest interference with this important work now being constructed not only with the sanction but absolutely for the Chinesel Government.

How is: it the mob shows such persevering hostility to the en tion of the telegraph Is it from a blind, unreasoning hatred of innovation, a dislike to the presence of foreigners, or because of some supposed interference with the laws of Fengiwell-known fact that the mandarins are bitterly opposed to the introduction into China alike of the railway and the telegraph. They will leave no stone unturned to keep out these great reforming innovators. They tear the expansion of Western knowledge among the people; they dread the influence that those agents of civilisation might work among the oppressed and misgoverned The Government may have been sincers in their desire to settle the difficulty by purchasing the line, but the history of the past goes to show that it is possible it had no great desire to see the undertaking completed. Granting, however, that it does desire such a consummation, there is no doubt much secret hostility to the line pre-Vailing among the mandarius. At all events the repeated attacks upon the line and its constructors seem proofs of this. The natives would not continue their depredations unless. they were instigated to commit them. The authorities could always repress these disturbances if they chose. In this case they have not chosen to do so. Evidence to this effect is not wanting. Not only do they seek to ignore these lawless proceedings in some instances, but in every case they shuffle out. of their duty, which binds them to arrest and punish the ringleaders. The man who led on the mob who first robbed and then forcibly detained Mr. Boysen a prisoner at Huang Kow is still at large, and no attempt has ever yet been made to arrest him. Impunity for past offences naturally emboldens the natives to commit fresh outrages, even if they are not directly induced to perpetrate them by officials. The conduct of the native guard affords still further ovidence of the journal. It will no doubt form the subject of presumption that hose attacks are made with the connivance or at the suggestion of the mandarins. They are scarcely such rank cowards as to scatter at the appearance of a disorderly crowd, whom they ought to be able to disperse with ease. Their precipitate retreat looks rather like conformity to instructions previously received. THE DIFFICULTY BETWEEN ENGLAND AND It is time that this sort of thing was put a stop to. The Great Northern Telegraph Company's enterprise has from its first projection been a source of trouble and difficulty. At the outset the difficulties were due to their too great eagerness to commence their undertaking, before, in fact, they had received the Imperial sanction for They began the construction of the line before they had a legal right to Government protection, and hence they could not well claim compensation for the first attacks made upon the line. But the case is altered now. They have a special claim upon the Chinese-Government for security from violence. It has contracted with the company for the construction of the line and friends; you'll find them cool enough. Hornet, of Miguelia Legitimists and Red Republicans was marvellous. By and by they will return to occasionally a day's work, as they are now not understand what is meant by his warning is bound to use its best efforts to shield them from aggression or annoyance. native soldiery to protect the Company's employes while constructing the line, knowing they will desert their charge on the first sign of approaching danger. If the Government are indeed guilty of such duplicity it is difficult to imagine how the Company are to obtain redress for their wrongs. Setting saide the permanent difficulty arising from the climate, these settlements have lately experienced no form of embarrassment. They have enjoyed profound peace with their neighbours, the native States of the continent, since the chastisement of the Coomassie Government; and the only remaining cause of conflict with European authority likely, the Colonial Score ary affirms, to be finally removed by the pending negotiations with the French Government. Meantime the trade of the Coast has steadily improved: the revenue, which was estimated by Sir Garnet Wolseley at £50,000, was actually £65,600 in 1873, and bad risen to £74,000 in 1874. So, too the revenue of the settlement of Lagos, which is edistinct from the Government of the Gold Coast, was £30,000 in 1873 and £39,200 in 1874; SOUPPILE BETWEEN RUSSIAN AND PRUSSIAN and it has been able to repay the Treasury through the Colonial Office a loan of £10,000 which had been advanced in a time of great difficulty. PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. White Euger, 400 bags, at $2.85, by Kwong- An Anglo-Chinese Dictionally, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. HOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in sotemes. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained; forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are CAPITAL AND SURPLUS 800,000 TAFLS given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond previously attained, and dispensing with those wast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Chalmers Vocabularly contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medburst's English Nagasalsi ..... THE C. & J. TRADING Co. and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000 whilet this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammers and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various appli-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages onables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in Ohina, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few inparties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. PANSY. " What blossom have you brought to-day, Beside my pillow, dear, to lay ! Come, let me see my prize. A velvet pansy, large and fair. With petals yellow as your hair,

And purple as your eyes. 'I think I know the very spot, Where, bordered with forget-me-not, This lovely blossom grew.; We knew that pansy bed of old,

A sweet, swift story there was told, Between black eyes and blue. "It seems but yesterday we stood, Each unto each God's greatest good, Beneath the morning sky! We stood, as lovers stand, to part (But hand from hand, not heart from heart).

With lingering good bye. "Upon your snow-white dress you wore One blossom, plucked an hour before, While still the dew was wet: A purple pansy, fair as this, I took it, with your first shy kiss;

I have that blossom yet. "We thought our fate was hard that day, But darling, we have learned to say, 'Whatever is, is best' That far-off parting which is o'er Foretold one longer on before.

Awaiting which we rest. " We wait as friends and lovers do, Each reading true heart through and through. Until that parting come. Then if you speak. I shall not hear, I ahali not feel your presence near,

Nor answer. Death is durab. "You may bring pansies, too, that day, To spread above the senseless clay. But none so sweet as this: And never one like that dear flower, You gave me in love's dawning hour, With your shy, clingled kiss. I may not give you courage strong, And help and counsel all life long, As once I hoped to do. .... But, love, be fearless, faithful brave:

The pansies on my quiet grave

-All the Year Round.

May bring heart's-ease for you."

A WOMAN'S CURE FOR LOCKJAV the Reading Eagle, was somewhat alarmed about what was considered as a lockfaw epidemic. A great many fatal cases were reported, and the physicians again found themselves at a loss to properly meet this much reader should out this paragraph out.

TENT-PEGGING AND ORANGE-

It was to see the novel tent-pegging th most of us had faced the cold wind and the from the drags and carriages thickly surrounding the ground when the sergeants are seen to drive the targets—ordinary tentpegs lightly inserted into the soil-and to drop the flug, which is the signal for the first rider to make his effort. On he comes, urging his stead with voice and heel to attain the necessary speed, giving his lance a flourish or two, and finally, as he nears the peg, balancing it for his aim as he whizzes by. He fails, and so do eight of his immediate successors, some striking the ground wide of the mark, and others steering so unsuccessfully that it is scarcely worth while for them to make en passant the critical effort. Then starts a laucer favoured by both skill and fortune; as he approaches the mark-protruding, be it remembered but a few inches above the turf—he steadies the NORTH BRITISH AND MERCANTILE lance in his firm right hand, he draws his arm back for the instantaneous lunge, and as his spear flies round over his head, there is seen transfixed upon it the tent-peg which was the immediate object of all these futions gallops. As men and horses warm to their work the practice improves, until at last about one peg in three charges becomes the average of the game. There is on this occasion no competition between chosen sides. for it may fairly be assumed that these twelve Policies against FIRE, to the extent of £10,000 or THREAD WORMS. The signal is given, and from out the line there breaks a horseman at full gallop, with his sabre flourishing brightly in the dark distance. One by one, toough as it seems almost instantaneously, the golden oranges fall to the ground, sliced in two by the dexterous blade, as the soldier whirls past us toward the clump of trees at the end of the course; and before we have time to fully appreciate his perfect execution of the feat he is trotting lessurely back, to take his turn at the pastime. CHANGED PUBLIC OPINION AS TO RECENT WARS. A silent conviction has forced itself on the pullic mind that in the conflicts of opinion that have taken place within the last twenty years between the men of peace and their opponents the event has proved that the former were, in the main, right. The Russian war, for instance—for opposing which Mr. the extent of £15,000 on Adjoining Risks at Cobden, Mr. Bright, Mr. Sturge, Mr. Pease, Mr. Richard, and others, were attacked with a violence, of which those who do not remember that time can hardly form any conception-is admitted on all hands to have been a blunder; and it is felt, though per- UHINA AND JAPAN MARINE INSU baps not openly avowed, that it would have been better, in every sense, if the nation had then listened to the counsels of the friends. of peace. It is BATAVIA SEA AND FIRE INSURANCE begining also to be perceived that some of the principles for which the Peace Party has been contending have in them more of wisdom and sound national policy than their opponents once suspected. The principle, for instance, of non-intervention, for which they have long and earnestly contended-meaning thereby, not as is sometimes; most untruly alleged, non-intercourse with other nations, or want of interest in the general affairs of the world, but simply abstaining from meddling in the quarrels of others—is now accopted and acted upon habitually by our statesmen of all parties, an extent of $20,000.
